ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

On June 1, 2022, the International Scientific Conference entitled "The Right to Privacy in the Digital Age - in general terms" will be held at the Institute of Justice in Warsaw. The event will be organized as part of the Central European Professors' Network, coordinated by the University of Miskolc - Central European Academy.

The right to privacy is of particular value for the life of a human being. The protection of private life has been ensured by a number of regulations, including national and international ones. The right to privacy has been placed in the most important documents concerning human rights, but also confirmed by the constitutions of modern states, and included in the national legal orders. The constant development of new technologies and the progressive digitization of subsequent areas of human life have led to the emergence of the information society. The development of IT and ICT solutions, as well as the transfer of individuals' lives to the virtual space, in addition to the benefits associated with it, has also led to the emergence of new threats to the right to privacy. It is necessary to provide adequate guarantees of the right to privacy and legal mechanisms for the legal protection of private life.

The thematic scope of the conference will focus on current issues related to the right to privacy and the dissemination of new technologies, as well as the development of the information society. During the conference proceedings, attention will be paid in particular to the current challenges and problems facing the right to privacy in the era of socio-economic changes that have occurred over recent decades due to the digital revolution. The conference will discuss current issues related to the right to privacy and the development of new technologies, as well as the emergence of the information society. As part of the conference, universal standards regarding the right to privacy will be presented, as well as the problems faced by legislators and the judiciary of Central European countries. Particular attention will be paid to determining the limits of the right to privacy, as well as ensuring effective mechanisms of legal protection that can be introduced into national legal orders. During the conference, the challenges and legal solutions functioning in the countries of Central Europe, including Poland, Hungary, Slovenia, Serbia, Croatia, the Czech Republic and Slovakia will be presented.

During the event, prominent practitioners and scientists specializing in the protection of human rights, but also in other legal branches, will take the floor, which will ensure the extension of the context of the right to privacy to other areas of law, thanks to which the entire spectrum of the problem will be presented.

ABOUT ORGANIZERS OF THE CONFERENCE

ABOUT THE INSTITUTE OF JUSTICE

The Institute of Justice of Warsaw is a state organisational unit subordinate to the Minister of Justice. The Institute performs scientific and research activities in the area of lawmaking and the application, axiology and social operation of law. It also studies the phenomena of crime and social pathology. Institute of Justice conducts studies of lawmaking and the application, axiology and social operation of law as well as the phenomena of crime and social pathology. The Institute disseminates the results of these studies and engages in legal education. Areas of the Institute's research include, in particular: the functioning of legal institutions in the practice of the justice system; the effectiveness of legal protection bodies, legal axiology and the professional ethics of legal professions; the role of jurisprudence and grounds for its performance; the system, organisation and functioning of justice bodies, also against the background of social environment; the causes and conditions of violations of law; the size, structure and dynamics of crime and other pathological phenomena and behaviour; the enforcement of legal sanctions and social rehabilitation of offenders; interdisciplinary and comparative studies of the historical development of institutions of Polish law, including those of Polish law's conformity with the norms and standards of international and EU law. In order to disseminate the results of its studies, the Institute is authorised to organise domestic and international conferences, seminars and engage in publishing and documentation activities. Conducting its research, the Institute of Justice extensively uses scientific studies of case files of judicial and prosecutorial proceedings, reviewing ca. 10,000 files each year. This significant involvement in case file research distinguishes the Institute from other Polish legal research organisations. The Institute also conducts legal and comparative analyses, compiles statistical and economic reports and performs survey studies. More than 400 papers and 70 books have been written by the staff of the Institute's five sections (Section of Criminal Law and Process, Section of Civil Law and Process, Section of Family Law, Section of Economic Studies of the Justice System and Section of Fundamental Rights). As part of its official business, the Institute works with courts, other justice bodies and the National School of Judiciary and Public Prosecution. The Institute engages in international cooperation, taking part in international research programmes implemented by such bodies as the European Commission, Eurostat and the Council of Europe.

ABOUT THE CENTRAL EUROPEAN ACADEMY

The Central European Academy (CEA), which is committed to supporting comparative law in Central Europe began its work on the 1st of January 2022. The aims of the Academy are to manage large-scale research and training projects in Central European countries, addressing both legal professionals and young people interested in the field. In order to achieve its goals, CEA operates the Central European Professors' Network, organizes international scientific conferences and webinars, provides scientific publication opportunities, and creates and manages online professional interfaces. As a result of its activities, the Academy is confident that, in addition to improving the quality of domestic legislation, it will be able to create and support a widely acknowledged professional network involving Central European countries.

ABOUT THE FERENC MÁDL INSTITUTE OF COMPARATIVE LAW

FERENC MÁDL
INSTITUTE OF COMPARATIVE LAW

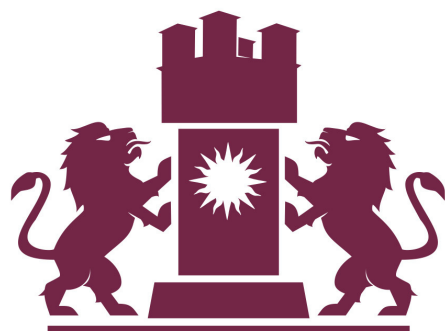

Established in 2019, the Institute is named after Ferenc Mádl, an academic, an emblematic figure of Hungarian comparative law, an internationally renowned lawyer and President of the Hungarian Republic. In 2020 MFI established the Professors' Network and coordinated and operated it in 2021. The Professors' Network included the following research groups: Family Protection from a Legal Perspective, The Impact of Digital Platforms and Social Media on the Freedom of Expression and Pluralism, Religious Symbols in the Public Sphere and Constitutional Reasoning and Constitutional Interpretation. The MFI also published four books in collaboration with CEA Publishing, and co-founded an international legal journal called Law, Identity and Values.

ABOUT THE CENTRAL EUROPEAN PROFESSORS'S NETWORK

CENTRAL EUROPEAN PROFESSORS' NETWORK

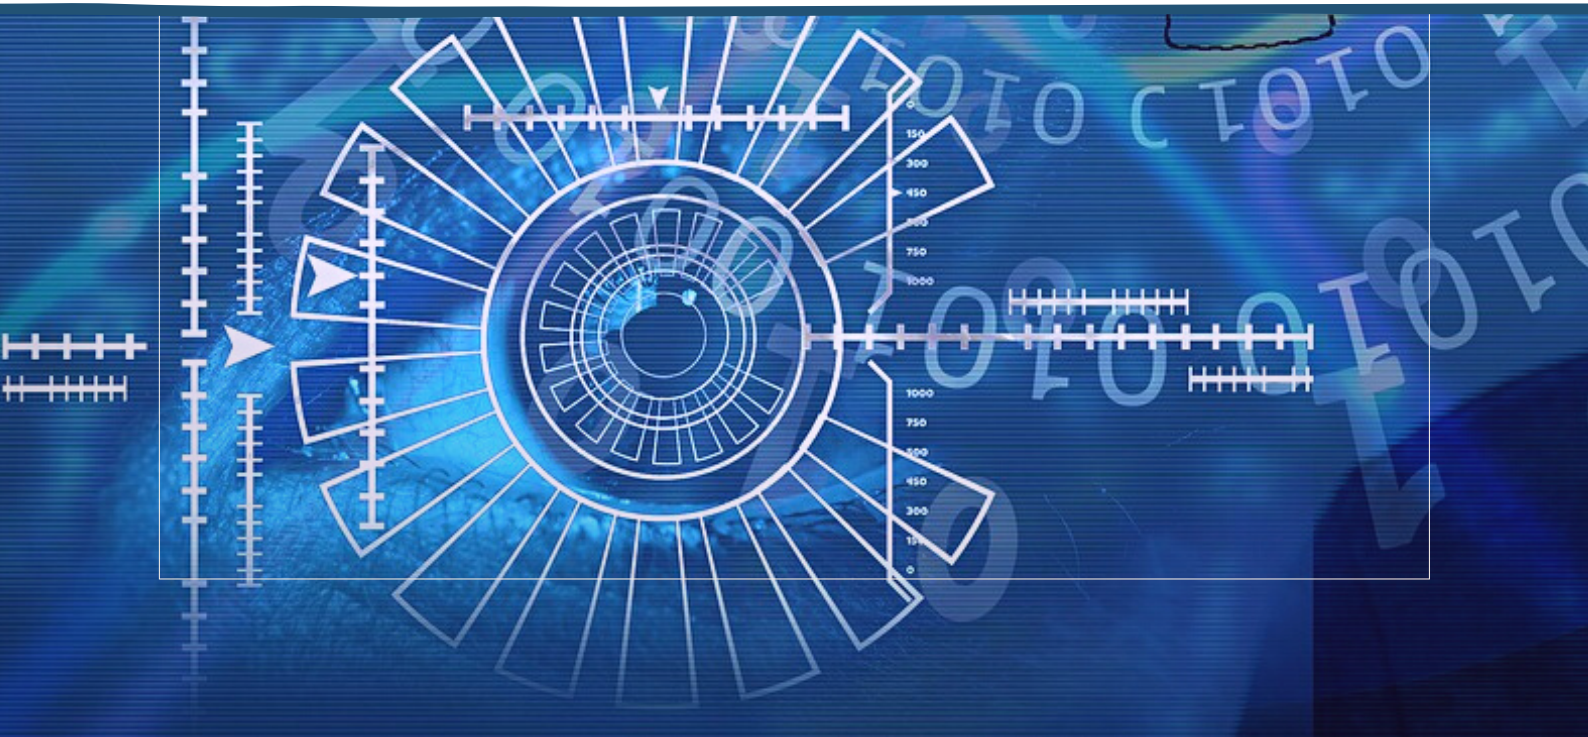

In January 2022, the 2022 research groups of the Central European Professors' Network started their activities. The Central European Academy, with the active participation of seven countries (Czech Republic, Croatia, Poland, Hungary, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia) and 36 main researchers, organises comprehensive international scientific activities in four research groups. The main frame issues are: „Right to parental responsibility”, „Right to privacy”, „Constitutional protection of national symbols” and „Protection of future generations and the environment”. The partial and final results of the cooperation, will be made available by each research team on various professional platforms, including conferences, and in the form of publications (scientific articles and books summarizing research results). As a result of its activities, the Academy is confident that, in addition to improving the quality of domestic legislation, it will be able to create and support a widely acknowledged professional network involving Central European countries. The primary aim of the initiative is to create and organise a Central European professional network through closer partnership.
